

INCLUSIVE COACHING

Good coaches adapt and modify aspects of their coaching to create an environment that caters for individual needs, allowing everyone to take part and experience success within the activity. The onus of inclusion rests with the coach.

Many people think that you need special skills or knowledge to coach participants with a disability. This is not the case. The basic skills of good coaching, when applied with an inclusive philosophy, will ensure that all participants including people with disability can participate.

Planning for inclusion

When preparing a coaching program, examine what, if anything, needs to be adapted or modified. Two strategies coaches can use when planning and conducting activities are TREE and CHANGE IT. By modifying the factors listed, coaches can meet the individual needs of the participants.

TREE

| T | Teaching / Coaching Style | |
|---|---------------------------|--|
| R | Rules / Regulations | |
| E | Environment | |
| Ε | Equipment | |

CHANGE IT

| | | Example |

| С | Coaching Style | Demonstrations, use of questions, role models, verbal instructions |
| н | How to Score | Rules |
| A | Area | Size, shape or surface of the playing environment |
| N | Numbers | Number of participants involved in the activity |
| G | Game Rules | Number of bounces or passes |
| E | Equipment | Softer or larger balls, or lighter, smaller bats/racquets |
| ı | Inclusion | Everyone has to touch the ball before the team can score |
| T | Time | 'How many in 30 seconds?' |

Tips for coaches working with participants with disability

- The basic principles of coaching apply when coaching participants with disability.
- · Accept each participant as an individual.
- Ask the participant what they are able to do; the needs, strengths and weaknesses of individuals will differ.
- · Assess each participant's aspirations, needs and ability and plan a training program accordingly.
- Understand how the impairment (disability) affects the participant's performance; it is not necessary to acquire extensive knowledge of the disability.
- · Set realistic and challenging goals as you would for all participants
- Be aware of the risks associated with all participants in your care, and be prepared to deal with emergencies should they arise.
